NIF Global & London School of Trends

NIF Global and the London School of Trends (LST) have formed a pioneering partnership to foster the next generation of creative talent in fashion and design. LST, a renowned design institution in London, UK, has a strong track record of shaping the careers of influential figures in the fashion industry.

LST's unique foreign outreach program now offers NIF Global students the opportunity to gain world-class industry training in London. These specially curated 4-week residential programs are available at affordable fees and accredited by the British Accreditation Council.

The program features workshops and lectures led by industry experts, covering key design topics such as trend forecasting, material exploration, and design theory. A major focus is portfolio creation and photoshoots, with mentors guiding participants to refine and present their work professionally. To enhance the experience, the program includes fashion street tours and market visits, as well as trips to design stores and studios for interior design-focused participants. These activities provide valuable insights into the latest trends in furniture, decor, and materials. Throughout, participants have the opportunity to upgrade their skills and expertise.
